Volume XV No. L

December 16, 1949

Opening their regular conference season, the Marion Indians tripped the Anamosa Blue Raiders, 46-

After a few minutes of opening play the Indians took the lead, and at the end of the first quarter Marion was leading 11-6.

Gable making With three baskets, King one, and Krog one, the Indians led by ten points; the half-time score being 24-14. In the third quarter Williams' six points and King's four helped to bring Marion up, and the period ended 36-24. Determined to keep the lead, Williams dumped in six points, and with the help of reserves Marion was leading at the time of the final whistle.

Bob Williams was high point man for the Indians with 15 points, followed by Barrie Gable with 13. The Raiders' high scorer was Dick Purcell with 13 points.

The Freshman-Sophomore game had many a fan on his feet in the closing minutes. After Marion had a fair lead, the little Raiders caught up and tied the score as the final horn blew. In the two minute overtime, however, the Indians went ahead to win, 33-28. Hugh Leffingwell was high scorer with 14 points, followed closely by Russ Seeks with 12.

collection for the Junior Red Cross was The taken November 30. total collection for the high school was $25.02. This money is used to support the National Children's Fund. School, health, and clothing supplies have been sent abroad, and educational materials, recreational supplies, medical attention has been supplied to young disaster victims. The Service Fund is used to finance local service projects that conform to Red Cross policies.

Last Friday in assembly four of our cross country boys were honored. Because three of the boys tied for first place in the meet at Iowa City, they had to draw lots for their awards.

Jack Edmunds came out on top, followed by Alan Mally and Richard Hotz, winning second and third places respectively. Harry Pinch also received an award for fourth place.

After the honors were presented, we were taken on an interesting and colorful airplane trip over Central and South America by way of a Pan American Airways film.

SANDRA BLAZEK. BILL LUNDQUIST THE LEADS HAVE

"Campus Daze" was the title of the two-act operetta presented by the music department December 8 and 9. The story took place at Beetax, a small college. It opened as the students were happily returning for the fall term and followed through the year to graduation.

The leading roles in the operetta were Carrie, Sandra Blazek; Spencer Goodnow, Bill Lundquist; Fred Tuttle, Edwin Carlson; Sol Rosenbaum, Lyle Fisher; Porky, Sam Báez; Tommy Dinklebender (Thompson), David McCalley; Ma Jenkins, Sue Cary; Bobby Blake, Mary Lou Nielsen; Hiram Goodnow, Pat Howe; Madame Louise, Dixie Rathman; and Governor Thompson, Don Stamy.

Ma Jenkins ran boardinghouse at Beetax (Beeswax to Ma), and her step-daughter, Carrie, was sent to the school by an aunt she never heard of. She was there to be learned, not dined and danced. Spencer was a happy-golucky rich man's son who was to be expelled from school because of his Carrie debts. inspired Spencer to pay his debts, and after all the difficulties were worked out, the operetta had a happy ending.

INQUIRING REPORTER

Question: What do you want for Christ-mas?

Dixie R: "My old eyesight back."

Barrie G: "What I want they don't give away."

Phyllis G: "Another tall, dark, handsome man with a lot of money."

Tom Jones: "A red cadillac convertible to take Audrey riding in."

Joe Horrick: "A blue packard convertible with white stripes." Wow!

Jack King: "A new house near First Avenue and Fifteenth Street in Cedar Rapids."

Agnes M: "My friendship ring back from Fisher so I can give it to Murdoch."

Gilbert C: "A passing grade in Government."

Miss Terrill: "A portable sewing machine." Guess she's looking toward the future.

J. Marchant: "Some good hypnotic subjects." What's the matter? Won't Ernie co-operate? X1170s-25-5pirit

We will soon be in the midst of another season of happiness and good cheer. The Christmas turkey, Christmas trees, decorated shop windows, and store Santa Clauses all add to the joy of another peaceful Christmas and symbolize the spirit of this, the most popular of all holidays.

The exchange of gifts at this time of year was first introduced by the Three Magi as they brought their humble gifts to the Christ Child in the manger. Now it is a custom practiced all over the world by people of every race, color, and creed.

But the spirit of Christmas can be dampened considerably by wars and political rivalries. In World War II, for instance, the troubled hearts of mothers and wives whose loved ones were fighting abroad crowded out the joy and happiness of Christmas.

Therefore it is necessary for us to keep peace in this troubled world of conflicts between rival nations and political powers. For such conflicts could lead to another terrible war of destruction and bloodshed. In this Atomic Age such a war could stop the present rapid progress of civilization and hinder continued progress forever.

Thus, it is, that we should all try to keep this world the way it was described in these words "Peace on earth, good will toward men."

John McGowan: "Ahhh, well, nothing I guess." That's funny--reliable sources say Margaret S. would make his Xmas complete.

Christine M: "A one way ticket to Missouri to visit Ronnie."

Various M.H.S. girls: "A bottle of 'Come and Get Me' perfume."

George M: "Heater that works, car, that is."

Janet McCune: "A dancing lesson from Pat Howe."

V. Emmons: "A hope chest."

Christmas, before 'Twas three weeks and all through my head stirring, Not a thought wave was so I went right to bed.

all My books were strewn on the table, but one-- only a miracle would get work done.

My brother had fallen asleep on couch;

He was having a nightmare and kept yelling "Ouch!"

and Dad Mom departed hours before

To the blessed land of sleep (you should hear my dad snore).

Then outside of the house there arose such a clatter,

I fell out of my bed to see what was the matter.

tripped toward the window and then found the sill.

I put up the shade and looked out toward the hill.

The moon was near full, and in its bright light

All the objects below stood out clear to my sight.

Then what did I see? Oh, this couldn't be true!

But eight typewriters pulling a desk came to view!

Something sat at the desk (I think it was human)

And clutched in its arms a box tied up in ribbon.

As jet planes that before we have seen them may fly

Faster than sound through great spaces of sky,

So up to the housetop the typewriters flew

With a desk and a box and the human thing, too.

I heard the thing crack to the roof. What a sound!

Down the chimney the creature now came with a bound.

It was dressed black from its in head to its foot.

Its clothes were all tarnished with ashes and soot.

The big ribboned box was still clutched in its arms.

And it sounded to me like it muttered some charms.

Its features were hidden 'neath a conjous hood.

It Looked vaguely familiar from the way that it stood.

It set the box down and uttered no sound,

Then suddenly it saw me and left in a bound.

It jumped on the desk. I heard the thing leave.

I picked up the box--and would you believe--

I had pulled off the bow and was lifting the lid

When my mother came in and said "Get out of bed."

I didn't long ponder what was inside the box,

For we were all busy printing the big Christmas "Vex."

Question of the week: Are B. Lundquist and Dave McCalley after Betty DeJong or Sally B?

Joanne Petrusch sure has a cute fella'-- David C., too bad, Arlene K.

B. Fisher and Barrie G. have quite the racket. Their C. R. girls get the car and come after them. Must be a fatal fascination.

Attention all eligible females: Jerry Peck is looking for a girl: Happy hunting, Jerry.

Have Nancy K. tell you about those C. R. parties. They sound like fun.

Billy Hintz's favorite sport used to be football; now it is holding hands with Majorie M.

Bob Williams has a big crush on a certain M. H. S. girl. I won't say what her name is, but her initials are B. W.

Ernie C. has another ardent admirer in the junior class. How about it, J. F.?

ODDS TOP EVENS

In the annual WaMaC Conference Basketball Jamboree held this year at Marion, the odds-Anamosa, Manchester, Marion, and Tipton-downed the Evens-Vinton, Monticello, Maquoketa, and Independence. Each team played two sevenminute quarters.

In their tilt with the Maquoketa five the Indians came out on top, 22-6. Bob Williams was high for Marion with 8 points, while Viet was high for Maquoketa with 3. Other scores were Anamosa 14, Vinton 16; Manchester 17, Monticello 10; and Tipton 15, Independence 19.

MT. VERNON SIDETRACKED

It was a chilly night when the Indians invaded the Mt. Vernon floor, but things started boiling as the two teams battled for top honors, Marion wirning, 43-35.

The Maroons took an early lead, but the Indians soon began dumping baskets, giving them a 13-8 margin at the end of the first quarter. The Mt. Vernon five tried hard but could not hold the Indians from scoring in the second period, the Maroons being on the bottom of a 25-13 score at the half.

After the half-time intermission the Maroons, full of fresh pep and energy, boosted their score to within five points of the Indians' during the closing minutes of the game. This last minute effort by the Maroons forced the Indians into a stall which prevented the Mt. Vernon team from catching up.

Jack King was high scorer for Marion with 14 points, followed closely by Dick Johnson with 13. Moore and Kent of Mt. Vernon shared scoring honors with 10 points apiece.

The Little Indians won their second straight tilt by downing the Mt. Vernon outfit, 34-29. Hugh Leffingwell took scoring honors with 19 points.

INDIANS DROP TO RAMBLERS

A spark basketball team from Marion High
Went down to Coe seeing stars in the sky,
But when the game was finished and done—
The stars in the sky?
There were none.

The above probably best tells what happened when the Marion Indians matched wits against the Wilson Ramblers at the Coe Field House December 2. The Indians came out with the short end of a 38-32 score.

The Ramblers took an early lead and maintained it during the rest of the game. Having a four point lead (11-7) at the end of the first quarter, the Ramblers boosted it to a ten point one (23-13) at the half. The Indians came back to narrow the margin to 29-23 in the fourth quarter, but again the Ramblers surged ahead to a 38-32 victory.

scoring honors with nine points. Jack Fulton was high for the Ramblers with eleven points.

Mr. McLeod's Freshman-Sophomore team, however, won their match with the Wilson Sophomores, 47-31. The Little Indians took an early lead in the game and kept it until the final horn. Hugh Leffingwell again led in scoring with 28 points.

SPANISH CLUB

Next Tuesday, December 20, the Spanish Club will have a Christmas party in true Latin American style. The program will consist of a Latin American news report by Dixie Rathman and a report on December holidays by Mary Ann Ross. On the fun agenda will be a pinata, an easily broken structure which is filled with candy, nuts, etc., hung from the ceiling. A blindfolded person tries to break it with a stick. Of course, when the pinata is finally broken, there is a mad scramble for its contents.

Feliz Navidad y Feliz Ano Nuevo a todos!!!!
