 Stop!
 Look!
 Listen!

In a class discussion recently, something was brought out that made me stop and think. Do we teen-agers count too much on adults to provide places for us to go or things to do? That is, are we too busy complaining of nothing to do to hunt for these things? We're old enough to take some of the responsibility ourselves. We should be able to see things that need to be done instead of always having to be shown.

Maybe the reason for so much juvenile delinquency today is that kids sit around and wait to be told what to do and, in the meantime, get bored. Adults can't spend all their time telling us things to do. We have to SEE such things ourselves. After all, we'll be adults some day, too.

It's a real challenge to look around familiar surroundings (or at bad grades!) and be able to see what needs to be done to improve the situation and then to really DO something about it. But, if we master this, we'll be taking a step in the direction of maturity.

So the next time you start to go out the door just to "goof off," turn around and look at the room you're in. Are there things that need dusting or has Dad been yelling at you all week to take the old magazines out to the garage? Then why not get busy and get these things done? You'll gain respect from your parents as well as having moved up a notch to adulthood.

Give it a try, and perhaps those too familiar words, "Why can't you SEE the things that need to be done?" will take on a new meaning for you.

 Let's Dance!

The dances which we are enjoying at Marion Junior High School bring up the question as to how the student should conduct himself. These comments are not aimed directly at seventh graders because even eighth graders -- who supposedly are beyond reproach -- have become a bit slack in the way they conduct themselves at social events like our tea dances.

A dance should bring people together for the purpose of enjoyment. With this in mind, we must remember that those who are a little heavy on their feet or those who weren't exactly born on a dance floor shouldn't be ridiculed. If another person is having fun, don't be a "wet mop" and ruin his enjoyment of the dance.

Also, the dance was meant for dancing. Those who do not come to dance shouldn't come at all. Stag lines are inexcusable and only hinder the overall fun-atmosphere of the dance. Yes, there are a few fellows on the student body who would come to a dance "to sit and throw pennies" at the girls who are dancing. Their presence is not wanted. However, we need more people to liven up our tea dances, so those who want to come to dance are welcome.

A boy's partner is a human being, not a rag doll to be thrown around the dance floor. Keep this thought in mind when you dance with a girl.

Because of our actions on the dance floor, adults sometimes wonder if we are carrying things to "extremes." I suppose most of us think "The Twist" is all right, but the older set (twenty-five and over) shudder.

To conduct oneself properly on the dance floor it's not necessary to be as stiff as a "Zombie." Just be your natural, unassumed self, and have FUN! That's what a dance is for!

HOME ROOM HAPPENINGS

Have you ever tried to master a tough arithmetic problem in your head? That's what Mr. Brainard calls a "brain teaser." You're missing something if you haven't tackled one.

In our home room arithmetic class we sometimes have extra time for a contest. Each row "goes" when it has a turn. Champions compete against each other, and in the end we have one grand champion.

*****

"Kevin," the biology teacher asked, "can you give me an example of how the human body adapts itself to changed conditions?"

"Yes, Mr. Brown," the boy answered, "my Uncle Jack gained fifty pounds in one year and his skin never cracked."

*****

Miss Haffa's home room lost three of its students during second quarter. Jerry Bower moved to Toddville on October 27. Ron Ohrt left for Vinton on December 12, and Gary Lewellyn moved to Humboldt on December 21. We have a new girl, though; Susan Klemm came from White Sands, New Mexico, on January 2. We now have twenty-four students.

During the second quarter Linda Tetting had a long absence from school, seventeen days. All of us are glad to have her back.

On October 26, our home room and Mrs. Taylor's had charge of a school party, the square dance.

Our home room came in second on the "Care" drive. Mark Rae was our representative. ... NANCY KAY GIBNEY

In an inspection at a Boy Scout camp, the director found an umbrella neatly rolled inside the bedroll of a small camper. The umbrella was not listed as a necessary item, so the director asked the lad to explain.

"Sir," asked the young Scout with a weary sigh, "didn't you ever have a mother?"

*****

Our home room has had an interesting, though not too eventful, second quarter.

Mrs. Johnston assigned themes, as usual, and she read us some nice Christmas stories written by a few of the students.

In a discussion about manners, Mrs. Johnston told us it was very impolite to chew gum in public. She also reminded the boys not to leave a girl standing in the middle of the floor after a dance.

... CATHLEEN NEUMANN

*****

"I don't like my teacher," reported the new first grader to his parents. "When I went in, she said, 'you sit here for the present' --- and she never brought it."

*****

On December 19, Mr. Miller's home room, along with Mrs. Smith's, had charge of the school tea dance. The classes were divided into separate groups, and the decoration committee and the set-up committee got things ready after school the night before the party. Both rooms received some nice compliments about the social event.

Our home room had an English test the afternoon of the Christmas dance, but the party was a success ... even so!

... MARI DUCKETT

"Johnny," said the teacher, "why don't you wash your face? I can see what you had for breakfast this morning."

"What did I have, teacher?"

"Eggs."

"You're wrong, teacher. That was yesterday."

SECOND HOUR

NOTE FROM A PARENT: "Please give Johnny some homework for the next few nights. Our television set is broken, and we can't get it fixed for about a week."

*****

Our home room teacher, Mrs. Smith, comes from Marshalltown, Iowa. She is a graduate of State College of Iowa in Cedar Falls.

We enjoyed working with Mr. Miller's home room on the Christmas Dance which was held in the big study hall. Refreshments were doughnuts and pop. The room was decorated with red and green crepe paper. We used a turkey that Michelle Orness loaned us. She also brought a feather-covered doll which was used for the refreshment table. The gaily decorated Christmas packages were donated by the committee members for the floor centerpiece ... The party was a big success. ... LIZ KANE

*****

TEACHER: "How many successful jumps must a para-trooper make before he graduates?"

TOMMY: "All of them."

"All join hands, circle left, and honor your partners," rang through the Marion High auditorium as the seventh and eighth grade held their annual square dance. Mrs. Taylor's and Miss Haffa's home rooms were in charge of the party, held on October 24. There was a good turn out, and all had fun, including the teachers who were the chaperons.

Have you noticed that Mrs. Taylor's room is brighter? It's because we have new fluorescent lamps. ... LINDA NETZ

"In our family," the little girl told her teacher, "everybody marries relatives. My father married my mother. My uncle married my aunt. And the other day I found out that my grandfather married my grandmother."

*****

Mr. Vaska's home room has been studying civil defense recently. We've also been discussing home preparations for a nuclear attack. Joe Bennett, Timm Berg, and John Fillenworth visited with the mayor of Marion and inquired about stores and other places that would be satisfactory for a fallout shelter.

Here is the question and answer conversation with the mayor:

DO YOU THINK THAT PEOPLE SHOULD BUILD SHELTERS OF THEIR OWN?

Our government thinks that community shelters would be best, but people should buy their own. In the future we'll have community shelters.

DOES MARION HAVE ANY PLANS FOR COMMUNITY SHELTERS?

Yes, we are planning to use basements uptown, but the inspectors say that we have very few buildings that would do. DO YOU THINK CONTRACTORS SHOULD PUT SHELTERS IN THE NEW HOMES THEY BUILD?

Yes, but if they don't, they should build good, strong basements. I think they would not only be good for fallout but also for tornado shelter.

DOES MARION HAVE ANY PEOPLE TRAINED IN CIVIL DEFENSE?

At the present time, both the firemen and police are trained in civil defense, as well as a few private citizens. As yet, however, there is not a civil defense committee.

HOW MANY PEOPLE COULD BE SHELTERED IN MARION'S BUILDINGS?

Not too many. It would depend on the fallout.

HOW MANY SHELTERS WOULD YOU ESTIMATE THERE ARE IN MARION RIGHT NOW?

I'm not sure, but there are a number being built.

*****

When Judy returned from her first day at school she remarked casually, "Mother, I told my teacher that you threw the mop at Daddy this morning."

"Why on earth did you tell her that?" asked her mother in horror.

With devastating logic, Judy replied, "Well, she didn't know it."

We were a bit late in having our home room party, but that certainly didn't lessen the fun. It was held one Saturday evening early in November at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wright. We had a wiener roast in the fireplace, complete with relishes, soft drinks, and side dishes. Later, in the attic, there was a talent show given by the students. Stunts included a hat style show, singing, progressive stories, and various other performances. By the time the program was over, everyone was in "stitches."

Mrs. Wright keeps interesting bottles of colored water in the windows. These colors represent the various seasons. At Christmastime the bright red and green colored waters certainly did add cheer to our room.

Debbie McGowan did an excellent job as our representative for "Care" drive. We were first in the seventh grade home rooms, and each person in our class was given a Hershey bar as a reward.

We were minus our teacher for the week both before and after Christmas. Mrs. Wright was in the hospital. Miss Patterson substituted. She did a wonderful job, and we enjoyed having her.

Did you know that Mrs. Wright not only supervises but also types each edition of Indian Echo?

A FRIGHTENING EXPERIENCE I HAD

It was when I was ten years old that I had a frightening experience. My father worked, and still works, at The Cedar Rapids Gazette in Cedar Rapids. I got curious one day and started up some stairs. I knew I was following somebody because I could hear them climbing up and still farther up. Finally I saw a door open and close behind them. As I got to the door, they were going across the roof and into another door on the other side of the roof. I kept following, but the door on that side wouldn't open, so I went to the other side and tried to open it, and it didn't open either. I was beginning to get scared. I began to cry a little. I looked over the side of the roof to yell for help. Finally, after a few minutes, which seemed as though they were hours, somebody came and found me. I was shaking with fear going down those steps, but I made it! ... DENNIS MORNINGSTAR

TERSCHELLING

Terschelling is a quaint little town, more like a village.

Early in the morning one awakens to the sound of the milkman's horse, clomping along on the brick street.

During the day the ocean is a bustle of activity. Everywhere are seagulls, screaming about in their search of food. All around are small crabs, scuttling busily in and out of rocks. Here and there are jelly-fish, looking like many pieces of transparent ribbon.

Late at night, one can see the flashing light from the lighthouse, calling to tell that all is well.

Far in the distance the ocean plays with the wind, which is ever-blowing.

The town is old-fashioned, and so are its people, but no one wishes to change this way of life.

GONE FISHING

I have fished for many years now, but not for the larger game fish, like the larger pike and bass, until just a few years ago.

What really made me want to take up fishing as a hobby, was watching Grandfather fish. I can remember when Dad said that he saw something move over by one of the sunken stumps. Grandpa just cast out to the exact spot, and as soon as his lure hit the water, he got a strike. Ever since I saw that, and many more casts just like it, I wanted to be able to do it just as well as he could.

Soon after that I got my first really big fishing trip. We fished on two lakes, "Spityer" and "Block."

Lake Spityer was something like a swamp to me. It had many channels with tangles of weeds, rushes and sticks, and yet at different places it had crystal-clear water with sand and rock bottom. On "Spityer," I got one northern, three crappies, and one bass. On "Block," I got eight walleye, one weighing over two and a half pounds. ... STEVE LANGE

Music 'n Art

Our eighth grade art class has just finished working in clay. The first project was making clay cups. Next, we had a choice of making either sling pots or coil dishes. Last of all a piece of sculpture was required. Many different articles were made. Some chose to make animals while others used their imaginations and molded modern art pieces. After the clay projects were finished, they had to be glazed. This took several art periods. When we have finished working in clay, we'll start constructing things from paper.

The seventh grade has just finished working with chalk and water color. Many chalk designs were made with the imaginations of the pupils. In water color the students made scenes of the seasons and other subjects. Soon they will start working in mosaics. ... JOANNE SHEETS

Have you ever seriously considered a career in music? Let's think for a moment about qualities one must possess to be able to succeed in this field.

First, you must have a talent for music and an interest in the work. If such talents are yours, it is likely that you can succeed in the profession.

In beginning a study of music, the student should devote portions of his time to both vocal and instrumental music. Much can be learned in music classes in the public schools. It is good to join an instrumental organization or take private lessons in both vocal and instrumental work.

If you have talent, interest, and a determination to work, you can find both enjoyment and worthwhile experiences in music. ... MARY BLAIR

Dear
 Gabby

DEAR GABBY:

Q. WHAT WOULD YOU DO IF YOU SAW SOMEONE CHEATING ON A TEST?

A. Go up and talk to the person and tell him he is cheating. Remember, later on when there is no one to copy from he won't know the answers. He's only hurting himself. If you see him cheat again, the best thing to do is tell the teacher.

Q. IF YOU LIKE A BOY, HOW CAN YOU LET HIM KNOW YOU LIKE HIM?

A. Say "Hi" to him in the halls and talk to him. Be nice to him. If he takes part in a sport, tell him he does well (if he does) or compliment him in some other way. But don't be constantly at his heels.

Q. HOW CAN ONE BE POPULAR?

A. Dress neatly, have a clean appearance, be nice to every one, and most of all, don't talk "dirty." It doesn't sound nice. Think of other people before yourself.

Q. I THINK I'M TOO TALL. WHAT CAN I DO?

A. You can't shrink, so be proud of your height and carry your body erect. You will look better standing straight rather than slumping and trying to look shorter.

"Mrs. Wright, there's going to be a fire drill today, isn't there?" a home room student asked excitedly one morning a few weeks ago.

"No, not that I know of," she answered, somewhat puzzled.

"Are you sure?" the student persisted.

"I haven't heard a thing about it," she assured him, still puzzled.

But soon the speculation that there would be a fire drill -- probably that morning -- had circulated among students, to some of the teachers, ... and even Mr. Fowler had been given the warning!

It seemed that the reason for the pre-alarm was based on the fact that Mrs. Wright was wearing "flats" and was all prepared for the risky descent down her fire escape.

What wasn't known was that in the hurry of getting off to school that morning Mrs. Wright had arrived for work wearing one black and one blue shoe, each with its distinctive trim!!! So she changed into the pair she keeps for "drills."
